BEAUTIFUL HAIR.

Children and Adults Use Madam Yale's Hair Tonic.

More of the YALE HAIR TONIC is sold in all parts of the world than of any other preparation. This is because MADAME YALE, its manufacturer, is everywhere recognized as the world's greatest Specialist on DISEASES OF THE HAIR AND SCALP. Skill and reliability of the manufacturer is considered not the ingenity of the advertiser. When life is in the balance we consult the best physician, and when the life of the hair is at stake we cannot afford to experiment with unknown hair preparations simply because they are cheap. Permanent baldness is often the penalty pald for such rashness and faise economy. The BEST is the CHEAPEST. Use only the genuine MADAME YALE HAIR TONIC. It is NOT A DYE, and MME. YALE, as well as the whole medical fraternity, warms the public against HAIR DYES. They contain deadly POI-SONS which, when assimilated by the scaip, are retained in the system, to its lasting injury, producing paralysis. When a so-called "hair tonic" changes the color of the hair as soon as applied it should be avoided. The IALE HAIR TONIC resigns the original color gradually, by stimulating the merces of the scalp and invigorating its minute blood vessels, enabling the live coloring matter to be properly distributed. POET-GUIDE WRITES SONNETS.

Woodsman Serves Sportsmen and Also Wooes the Muses.

Tiring of civilization he became a guide about half a century ago, and he has lived in the woods ever since. Since 182 he has been a keeper of Cornell Park in the heart of the Adirondacks. He began to write verses in 1845.

Some of his poems were seen by L. C. Smith of Syracuse, who took such interest in them that he arranged for publishing a volume of them. The book has just appeared with the modest inscription, "Poems by C. Carter."

Among the subjects treated in the verses are "Spring," "Old Bear Mountain," "Moss Rock," "Epitaph on a Favorite Dog." "A Forest Home" and "From Mid-Age to the Grave."

Long time I've been with you.
Have slept upon thy bosom
And viewed thy peaks so blue.

On the mountains bleak and bare.

Where song birds, at the dawning Awake me from repose.
And sephyrs, soft and sighing,

MOTHERS ASKED FOR OPINION. W. C. T. U. Adopts This Method of

Supporting Canteen Law.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Opinions of mothers of regular army soldiers are to be used by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in support of the contention that the anticanteen law should not be repealed by Congress. This step has been decided on by the national officers of the union at Rest Cottage, Evanston.

"The opinion of the mothers is about the most effective argument we could present before a congressional committee," said Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, national president. "We anticipate some effort to bring about a change in the anti-canteen haw and we will certainly oppose it."

Each of the 10.00 chapters of the local organizations will be instructed to communicate with mothers of soldiers in their localities and ask them their opinion of the canteen. The mothers also will be asked whether their sons send more or less money home since the canteen was abolished than they did before.

AUTOMOBILE CASE

Says His Machine Was Purposely Geared to Run Within the Speed Limit.

Highway Protective Association Announces That It Is Prepared to Prosecute Case and Enforce Laws.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL New York, Nov. 15.-There is every indication of a spirited and sensational legal battle when the case of Foxhall W. Keene comes up before Justice Franklin at Oyster Bay next Tuesday. Mr. Keene, who was arrested near East Norwich for driving his automobile in excess of the legal speed roads, declares that his machine was purposely geared too low to attain any such speed and that he will fight the case.

On the other hand, the Long Island Highway Protective Association, which is re-sponsible for Mr. Keene's arrest, announces that it is prepared to push the charge and that it is prepared to push the charge and prove it.

"This society has nothing against automobiling," said Mr. Townsend Scudder, secretary of the association, "In fact, some of its members are automobilists themselves. The condition is such in Nassau County, however, that we consider the roads unsafe for our wives and daugnters to drive on them. I believe in automobiles and expect to become the owner of one. As a result of the efforts of this society, the roads in the northern part of Nassau County have become practically free from the soorcher element."

It is asserted that the members of the society have declared openly that they have been watching for Mr. Keene for some time. Mr. Scudder, when questioned as to the absurdity of an eight-mile-an-hour speed limit for country villages, declared his interpretation of the Cocks law to be that only cities and not villages have the privilege of passing ordinances raising the limit above eight miles an hour.

BLACKMAILING MILLIONAIRES PROVES REMUNERATIVE.

Have Reaped Golden Harvest From Wealthy People.

New York, Nov. 15.—As the result of the arrest of William Becker, a ship's carpenter on the steamship Americus, accused of being one of the "Russian Nihilists" who for weeks have annoyed prominent millionalres and bankers in this and other cities by writing threatening letters, the police have extorted a confession that has put them on the trail of the boldest gang of blackmallers that ever operated in this country.

them on the trall of the boldest gang of blackmaflers that ever operated in this country.

The man Becker, who is not a Nihilist, made a confession to-day in which he implicated five men and gave their names. Scores of detectives have been turned loose from police headquarters and are now in search of the leaders of this band.

At first the police thought that the writers of supposed Nihilistic letters to J. P. Morgan, John W. Gans and other millionaires were written by some mad cranks, but from the startling revelations made by the pisoner Beker they have learned that the writers of these letters are some of the most famous criminais in the United States and that they have been operating successfully and collecting fortunes in blackmail for months. Emboldened by their success they thought that they could frighten such men as Morgan, the Vanderbilis and John W. Gates into disgorging great sums.

According to the confession made by Becker the gang has operated in most all of the larger cities of the Union, and the police here have now corroboration of this statement in letters received from many cities in the country.

NASSAU ROADS ARE SAFER. $200,000 TO BE A BARONESS.

Would Not Wed the Handsome Baron von Danckelmann of Muritz, Whose Father Is a German Patrician.

Fan Francisco, Cal., Nov. 15 .- The fourth don marriage broker, and who signed an agreement to pay $10,000 for the broker's services in laying his title before an heir-ess, is Baron Eberhard von Danckelmann of Muritz, in Mecklenburg.

He was willing to confer the title of Baronness upon any woman who could bring him the tidy fortune of f40,000 as a compensation—rather than a dowry. One compensation—rather than a dowry. One of the women, who did seize upon the great honor offered her, was Mrs. Lantry and her alleged answer to the proposal of the man she had never seen is interesting to read. Baron Danckelmann, who is about 49 years old, went to London in December, 1895, to be handled by Captain Pokorny. He is handsome, and quickly made friends for himself in society, and Captain Pokorny hoped, with the assistance of his solicitor, Fitzgerald Lucius O'Brien, to find a wealthy girly whose acceptance might be obtained. The full agreement was this:

THE ALLEGED AGREEMENT.

I. Eberhard, Baron von Danckelmann, of Muritz, in Meckenburg, now at Cartinge's livel, St. James, in the County of London, do hereby send greetings. Whereas, I have engaged the services of Landislaus de Pokorny, if Tharnes View, East Moissey, to act as my accut in certain businers matters, which I desire to be carried out on my behalf in London, and which necessitate the employment of considerable portion of his time, laior and attention; and,

Barom Danckelmann set himself up in luxury at Claridge's Hotel, in St. James. He was introduced into society in a limited way, and Captain Pokorny and Mr. O'Brien busied themselves spreading his fame and trying to find a girl with an ample fortune and longing for a title.

Mr. O'Brien, who is in Auckland, says that one of the several ladies who were approached was Mrs. Langtry. A favorable answer was hoped for from her.

It is stated that she meditated upon what was said to her, and then replied that she appreciated the compliment, but that she she would not become the Baroness Danckelmann.

Several English ladies, who had or were to inherit comfortable fortunes, were tried, and Captain Pokorny believed that he was on the right track, when Baron Danckelmann was forced by his aged father to return home. The matter of hunting an heiress for him was abandoned.

As in the former cases, Mr. O'Brien had been made the trustee of the deed signed by FIERCE BATTLE IN MIDAIR. Hawk and Snake Killed Each Other Far From Earth.

Other Far From Earth.

BEPUBLIC SPECIAL

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 15.-Mack
Bail, keeper of the Poorhouse at Grantsville, witnessed yesterday a thrilling fight in midair between a blacksnake and a chicken hawk. The hawk came fluttering down from the top of a mountain, acting as though it were wounded, and when it came in range he could see that it was fighting with a snake which was wrapped about its body and gradually squeezing the life out of it. The snake would poke its head up, as though to bite the hawk in the head, and the hawk would peck at the snake with its sharp bill. The fight was continued till the life was almost crushed from the hawk, which then fell to the ground.

Mr. Ball examined and found the snake

from the hawk, which then led to take ground.

Mr. Ball examined and found the snake wrapped three times around the hawk's body, the bones in which were crushed and broken, and both bird and reptile were in the throes of death. Each had killed the other in their midair battle. It is supposed the hawk had attempted to carry the snake away in its talons, and that the snake coiled about the hawk and began its fight for life.

YOUNG MAN FOUND BOUND AND GAGGED IN A ROOM.

Andrew Bennett, a marine engineer, was chieroformed, bound and gagged in his room by a man whom he regarded as a friend. When the police found him he was still suffering from the effects of the narcotic. With difficulty he told them of his stranke experience, which might have seemed incredible if the evidence of the crime had not been forthcoming.

Bennett was lying upon a bed with his hands and legs bound together with stout cords. A handkerchief with odor of chloroform still strong covered his face, while his pockets were turned inside out. His position was such that he could not have tied himself, nor could his rambling narrative have been feigned.

Charles Weber, a friend and relative of the victim, is designated as the perpetrator of the outrage. On a complaint verified before Police Judge George H. Cabaniss, a warrant was issued for his arrest on a charge of robbery. To stimulate the activity of the police Bennett has offered a reward of $100 for the capture of his alleged nesaliant.

"I feet certain that the fellow intended to murder me," said Bennett, "He could have had-no other purpose in view when he tied that handkerchief over my mouth so tightly that I could scarcely breathe."

Weber at one time lived in San Jose, but for four months he has been gaining a pre-carious livelihood in this city. He made the acquaintance of Bennett after his ar-rival, and according to the latter has suc-ceeded in borrowing small sums of money.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL
San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Evidently for purposes of robbery, possibly for murder, Andrew Bennett, a marine engineer, was hot know that it was chiproform. The hand-kerchief was damp with some kind of liquid, but that did not seem strange to me. Weber kept on writing as if nothing were wrong, so I was not alarmed when a strange feei-ing of drowsiness crept over me.

"Suddenly I lost consciousness. That is all I can remember until I was awakened some time later by footsteps in the hallway. I tried to get up, but I found myself tied. I tried to call, but the handkerchief gagged me.

"I beat my head against the side of the wall, but no one neard me. I was beginning to despair when I again heard footsteps. This time I was more successful. The pounding on the wall attracted attention. The landlord came into the room, but when he discovered by predicament he would not release me unless a policeman was present. The police were sent for and when they arrived the ropes were cut. "Weber is no novice at his work. He forced my arms downward almost to the knees, and then, by tying one arm behind and the other in front, he left me in a helplers position. I was lashed with a piece of gasket cord, and my wrists were badly swollen. I still feel the effects of the chloroform." LOST CONSCIOUSNESS.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. there comes news of the killing of I+ster

Cook of Upper Mattola by Mabel Samuels. a 13-year-old girl. Cook's life was brought to a full stop at the Howard ranch, hear Shelter Cove, an inlet thirty-five mil'ca below Petrolia, on the Coast road to McKees. It was immediately following a struggle, in which the child came out victor, that 'he fatal shot was fired. For some time post Cook has been bothering the girl and following her about. The child feared him, and his presence about Shelter Cove filled her with terror.

Mr. Howard, the girl's uncle, left the ranch on a mission that carried him up into the backwoods. Mrs. Howard and her niece were left alone in the house. About noon Cook dropped around. As usual he began paying attentions to the child. She vigorously resented his advances, but Mrs. Howard was obliged to absent herself from the house for a few minutes, and during that brief period Cook sized the little girl, who screamed, and a struggle followed.

The little girl was no match for the man, but the fear of the fate that confronted her gave her strength that may have been more than human, and she managed to extricate herself. As soon as she was free she rushed into an adjoining room, a-ized a riff- and confronted Cook. Evidently he did not think that she had the nerve to use the weapon. He started acrose the room towards the doorway in which the girl stood, but he took only a few steps, for the girl raised the rifle to her shoulder and fited.
